ROAD SAFETY AWARENESS

Road travel has become an integral part of all of us and cannot be avoided in our day to day life. With increasing economy and population, there has been an immense increase in the traffic on the roads over a period of time. While on the one hand it has made things convenient for us but on the other hand it has also increases our concerns of road safety.

Our roads have a heterogeneous mix of traffic with high speed vehicles, rickshaws, motor cyclists, scooters, cyclists and pedestrians all sharing the same space at the same time which makes things difficult, on an already over burdened road infrastructure leading to major accidents.

What are the causes of these accidents

Around 80% of the road accidents happen because of the fault of the driver. There are several other reasons for these high accident rates such as-

- Drunken driving.
- Driver's fault due to over speeding.
- Underage, untrained driver's.

- Pedestrian's fault.
- Bad and defective roads.
- Mechanical defects in the vehicles.
- Bad weather conditions.
- Over loading.
- Talking or Texting on Mobile.
- Lack of proper implementation of Road Safety Law.

What are the effects of these accidents

- Loss of Life.
- Loss of earnings for the family affected.
- Costly injuries.
- Property damages.
- Loss of travel time and increased congestion on the road.
- Total economic loss to the country due to road accidents is more than 3,00,000 crore therefore road accidents are a huge burden on the economy growth.

Measures that can be taken to curb these accidents

- Making Road Safety Assessment a compulsory part of the syllabus in schools which will help children to learn about the rules and safety of roads early in life.
- Defaulters should be fined heavily for breaking the rules.
- Make Licensing and driving tests mandatory and more strict.
- Imprisonment and heavy penalty for drunken driving.
- Mandatory registration of criminal cases if the vehicle's is under the influence of alcohol, overloaded, untrained or underage.
- Mandatory fitness checks of the school buses as well as the drivers.

- Need to provide well maintained, safe and efficient public transport systems.
- Enforcement of stringent rules in implementing road safety laws and traffic management.
- Installation of CCTV cameras for better monitoring of traffic, Highway patrolling using radar to detect over speeding vehicles, weather monitoring stations.
- Organizing traffic incident management program to reduce congestion and rescues the accident victims to nearest hospital authority.

Let us make our Cities and Town's safe and accident free with our conscious effort and positive attitude. Be an active citizen and educate others- take initiative in spreading Road Safety awareness and relevant matters of safety and security. Have a voluntary discipline within ourselves to overcome this hurdle.

(Source-Nagaland Road Safety Authority)

Who should share the responsibility of road safety

- Citizens of the country, as responsible citizens of the country together can make change.
- Government and Legislative bodies of the country.
- Police can improve road use behaviour through enforcement and strict measures.
- Media can play a very important role in creating road safety awareness through advertisement on safe driving.
- NGO's

Waste Management in Sechu-Zubza, Nagaland

With the changing times, our lifestyles has changed in many ways and in the process we generate wastes of different types such as iron, tin, aluminum, sachets, wrappers, plastic, rubber, cartons, paper, food waste and so on, in our daily lives. Many of the wastes are biodegradable and compost into soil. However, there are other non-biodegradable wastes which persist in the environment for a long period thereby harming the environment. In many towns and villages of Nagaland the affect has being held and people have started to react and take remedial measures to improve their environment.

10 Golden rules of road safety for driver's

- Conduct a pre-trip inspection on your car.
- Wear seat belt.
- Respect and follow the rules of the Road.
- Stick to the speed limit.
- Don't drive under the influence of alcohol or any other substances.
- Protect children by ensuring they are in appropriate car seats.
- Pay attention while driving.
- Stop when you are tired- swap driving with a travel companion.
- Wear helmet if you are riding a two-wheel vehicle.
- Be courteous-Always consider other roads users when you are on the road.

One such success story is initiated in Sechu-Zubza, a small town in Nagaland; comprising of 3,425 household and a total population of 17,369. Over the last few years, the consumer pattern has changed rapidly and products being packed in cans, plastics containers etc. Waste is often seen being dumped on the roadside or outside homes. Plastic being a light, convenient and durable material has become an essential part of today's lifestyle and its indiscriminate use and careless disposal is becoming a nuisance and eye sore.

Women Self Help Group at Sechu-Zubza had started to understand the importance of

The practice of rearing pigs like any other Naga household is common, and even if someone doesn't rear them, food waste is usually collected in a bin or bucket and used beneficially in backyard piggery farming. They too practice collection of food waste and kitchen waste at their own homes and give it to the pig rearing farmer.

Transportation of the collected waste to be sold in Dimapur is usually through Tata mobile after sorting into plastic, cartons, scrap metal, paper such as text books and news papers. The profit they make may not be much which is about Rs 3000/- per month per person but the initiative taken by them is helping in keeping the environment clean and reducing pollution.

For more efficient transportation; the bulk pet bottles and other plastics are compacted by using a locally made compactor developed by Alie Sekhose from Sechu which is a hand held prototype "Waste Compacting machine" to waste management and made this a beneficial activity. These women who are farmers, housewives and small business owners had seen scrap dealers/kabariwallas coming around and buying their waste and selling it to big scrap dealers, and realized that they too could do the same and earn some income; as well as take care of their environment. Plans were made among groups comprising of two three members to collect waste along the National Highway-29 which passes through the village and rivers located within their jurisdiction and also collect pet bottles etc. from small streams of the town which was in abundance at the beginning. They collect various wastes like plastic bottles, tins, metal waste, paper products, tires etc. The collection of the waste is done twice or thrice a week manually or using their own transport. The collected wastes are then segregated and transported to Dimapur, the nearest commercial city, and sold to the scrap dealers.

help compact the plastic wastes. It has helped immensely in decreasing the size of the plastic wastes mass.

To curb the menace of plastic during important functions, the use of plastic and paper plates are discouraged. In all the churches, you will find stacks of steel, melamine plates and cups to be used during any important occasions like weddings, feast etc., and they are washed and reused again. The Sechu Zubza Youth Organization has ordered that only 40 micron+ plastic should be used and therefore use of plastic and paper plates during any occasion in the town is discouraged/ prohibited. Such practices are in a lot of ways contributing to cleanliness and also in beautifying the surrounding.

The possibility of community bins in colonies is a big challenge because there is no safe designated place to dispose the inert wastes after segregation as waste will accumulate and become an eyesore.
