DoSE NOTIFIES ON AADHAAR AS MANDATORY FOR AVAILING GOVERNMENT SCHEMES

The Directorate of School Education has, in a notification, informed all school authorities, both government and private, that Aadhaar has become mandatory for availing government schemes such as stipends, scholarships, APAAR ID, Student PEN in UDISE+, etc.

In view of the above, it is important that school authorities identify school children without Aadhaar cards and prioritize their enrollment to avoid any disruption in the benefits provided by these government schemes. Ensuring that all children have an Aadhaar card will facilitate the seamless implementation of these schemes and help students access the necessary financial aid and resources for their education.

It should be noted that the UIDAI, Government of India has authorized the Department of School Education to conduct Aadhaar enrollment of school children at the block level, making the facility easily accessible to the community. Most of the Educational Block Research Centres (EBRCs) in the State are equipped with Aadhaar enrollment kits for the convenience of school children.

Furthermore, schools are advised to utilize the facilities at EBRCs and organize enrollment camps within school premises to support the Aadhaar registration process. This proactive approach will ensure that all eligible students are covered and provide convenience to parents and guardians in completing the registration process.

T. R. ZELIANG ADDRESSES STATE LEVEL CONSULTATIVE MEETING NEC VISION PLAN 2047

The State Level Consultative meeting NEC Vision Plan-2047 was held at Hotel Vivor, Kohima on 8th November 2024.

Deputy Chief Minister, T.R. Zeliang mentioned that the core objective of Vision 2047 is to achieve socio-economic growth, better infrastructure and connectivity, cultural preservation, sustainable development, and empowerment. It is a vision for progress that respects the past, embraces the present, and looks forward to a brighter and more inclusive future for all.

Speaking on the Sustainable Economic Growth, Zeliang said Nagaland's economy has traditionally relied on agriculture, and modernizing this sector holds tremendous potential for the state. Strategic actions, such as promoting diverse crop cultivation, expanding irrigation and water management systems, establishing cold storage facilities and investing in capacity building for farmers and agricultural enterprise can help the State significantly, he added. He also mentioned that the Infrastructure & Connectivity in the State are gradually improving; it continues to be a challenge to have better connectivity with sustainable roads. With the increasing demand in the e-commerce services, the State aims to penetrate the logistics sector by integrating with other mode of transport thus creating seamless connections between rural areas and urban centers. However, one key factor which requires the assistance and intervention of NEC is the development of warehouse and cold storage in bus depots and terminal, he added.

Emphasizing on Promotion of Art, Culture and Tourism, T. R. Zeliang said that adequate support system such as seminars, workshops and capacity building initiatives and investment in establishing state-of-the-art cultural and exhibition spaces across the State will help boost in promotion and hosting art and cultural activities to reach a far larger audience. He said tourism remains one of the most potential sectors in the State for income generation and self-sustainability, with beautiful landscapes and available natural heritage sites, the potential for tourism growth in the State is abound.

On Industrial Growth, T. R. Zeliang said there is a huge potential for agro-based industrial growth in the State. The Agri-Horti Sector holds tremendous potential for development of various food processing industries. In this regard, establishment of minor and major food processing units in the State will accelerate growth of the producers and augment the income of the farmers. Due to absence of food processing units, the growers and farmers of perishable food items are discouraged to a great extent, as such, NEC may take special attention in this area.

On Health and Education sector, Zeliang said that key areas requiring immediate attention include the establishment of PSA Oxygen Plants with booster/compressor units, strengthening of blood banks and blood component separation services. Further, establishment of Green Climate Resilient Healthcare Facilities and the introduction of efficient biomedical waste management systems will contribute to a more sustainable healthcare infrastructure. In the education sector, there is a lack of essential infrastructure, including academic buildings, hostels, laboratories, and libraries, which are critical for the effective functioning of Higher Educational institutions. The absence of adequate facilities for incubation centres and sports amenities further limits opportunities for skill development and entrepreneurship.

Highlighting concern for timely sanction and release of funds at the right season,

Deputy Chief Minister, T. R. Zeliang urged the NEC representatives for release of funds for Agri-Allied sector and Infrastructure, and appealed to them to convey the message to the concerned Ministries which may be reflected in the draft Vision Document 2047.

A state-level programme on observation of International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women and the launching of 16 days of activism against Gender-Based Violence and Nayi Chetna 3.0 (Gender Campaign) was held on 25th November 2024 at Town Council Hall, Chumoukedima. It was jointly organised by the Department of Social Welfare, Mission Shakti and Mission Vatsalya, Nagaland State Rural Livelihood Mission and District Administration, Chumoukedima and Dimapur under the theme 'United to end the violence against women.'

Secretary, Social Welfare, Martha R. Ritse, IAS speaking on the occasion, stated that marking the 25 years since the United Nations designated 25th November as the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, the annual event launches the 16 Days of Activism against Gender Based Violence, which ends on Human Rights Day, the 10th of December. All stakeholders including governments and non-governmental organizations (NGOs) are invited to join together and organize activities designed to raise public awareness on the issue, she said.

Ritse highlighted that the data from Women Helpline Nagaland and One Stop Centres have shown that, of all the violence related cases received over the past 3-4 years, the highest number has been that of domestic violence and the second highest number of cases has been that of cybercrime or cyber-violence against women, which is a new trend now with the increasing use of technology in our daily lives especially amongst the younger generations. She said these data are a very serious and sad reflection of our society. Significant progress has been made across the world including in India with the adoption of laws and policies to prevent and respond to violence against women and girls through prevention strategies and inter-sectorial services to survivors of violence. However, due to weak enforcement and discriminatory social norms, the efforts have been hampered, she added.

Ritse also highlighted the Sambal component under Mission Shakti as a platform for the safety and security of women, schemes such as the Women Helpline 181 and One Stop Centre cater to women who are facing violence and are in distress.

Addressing on the topic 'Way forward to address gender-based violence,' Deputy Commissioner, Dimapur, Dr. Tinojongshi Chang said that early definitions of Gender-based Violence (GBV) focus primarily on physical acts such as beating or battering but now it widely includes material deprivation, economic exploitation, emotional and sexual abuse including marital rape and even pornography. GBV is often used to represent any act or threat by men or male-dominated institutions that inflict physical, sexual or psychological harm on a woman or girl because of their gender or vice-versa. He urged all stakeholders to develop a long term plan of action that would address issues on equality for women.

Deputy Commissioner, Chumoukedima, Polan John in his welcome address said that violence against women is perhaps the most shameful human rights violation and most pervasive, as long as it continues, we cannot claim to be making real progress towards equality, development or peace, he added.

Speaking on the occasion, the Governor of Nagaland, La Ganesan said women play vital roles in the socio-economic development of our country but are usually the unsung heroines. These remarkable women are not just contributors, but many are the primary breadwinners of their families.

The Governor further said that we are aware of the multitude of challenges facing workers in the informal sector. Irregular income, lack of adequate infrastructural support and limited access to financial services are some of the hurdles that need to be overcome. These challenges highlight the critical need for awareness and education about various governmental welfare schemes designed to support them.

The Governor urged everyone to continue supporting these efforts, ensuring that every woman, especially those in the unorganized sector, receives the opportunities and support they deserve, and work together to create a future where every woman's contribution is recognized, enabling our society to flourish.
